ANY BEAUTIFUL DRESS MODEST? THIS MAY BE A QUESTION BUT EVERY UGLY GOWN IS IMMODEST

BY MOLLY LEE.

WITH the extremes in fashion for women's clothes which have appeared the past few weeks, has come the sound, now and then, of a voice "crying in the wilderness" for a reform.

Here is the opinion of a woman who is an accepted authority on dress. Do you agree with her?

When one sees the gowns, which are such a far cry from interpreting beauty that they can be by no stretch of the imagination be said to "interpret" anything, one is inclined to think there is some truth in her assertion.

She further says, "Any dress which accentuates, or fails to hide any departure in the human body from the God-like image in which it was created," is immodest.

One is almost inclined to agree with her wholly in this, when the ugly feet and ankles are recalled which have been revealed by the abbreviated skirt.

The short, full skirt now in style is most sensible, as compared with the narrow ones which "hobbled" the woman the country over—it is a tremendous improvement on the long skirt which women wore in the street a few years ago, gathering up unspeakable filth as it dragged along over stairways and pavements.

But with its virtues have come its abuses. Thick, ugly ankles, pigeon-toes, even bow-legs and knock-knees are now displayed without hesitation.

Low cut waists which are charming for young girls are worn by the possessors of thin, scrawny, discolored necks.

Lady Duff-Gordon makes what seems at first reading a wild statement as to the immodesty of women's dress, but her idea that clothes must be suitable, harmonious and becoming is a basic principle which all women could adopt with profit.

A chubby, radiant child of three clad in the little pink suit which Mother Nature provided for it on its arrival, and with only dimples and golden curls for trimming, suggests no thought of immodesty. It is only after the body grows old and ugly that a display of it seems immodest.

A two hundred pound woman with several chins and the lines of youth entirely lost, is not an edifying spectacle in a short silk skirt and a waist like velvet, even though she be attired in the very latest fashion.

Tall angular women, bony and with a "eubist" effect in outline with awning stripes or six inch plaids also hurt the aesthetic sense of the beholder.

The more notice in fashion does not call this attire immodest necessarily, but according to Lady Duff-Gordon, it is.

We do not all agree with her, but granting that she is right there is certainly a very small percentage of modest dressing to be seen these days.

Proclamation on Flag Day Issued by Willis

COLUMBUS, O., June 2.—Governor Frank B. Willis today in a "flag day" proclamation urged that flags be displayed June 14 on all public buildings, at home and business places and in the public schools.

"Our flag should not only be loved at home, but respected abroad. The respect of foreign nations can be maintained only by protecting the rights of American citizens, by playing no favorites and by maintaining the strictest neutrality toward warring nations.

"Our flag is the harbinger of peace to the world."

Rodger Doerzbach left Thursday afternoon for Ann Arbor, Mich., where he will be the guest of Wilson Harris, who is a student at the University.

Among the pre-nuptial courtesies given for the pleasure of Miss Stella Robertson, whose marriage to Mr. Charles Call will take place next Wednesday June 7th, was the miscellaneous shower given Thursday evening by Miss Elizabeth Mulleney, at the home of Mrs. Jas. Kelley on McDonough-st.

Cards were the diversion of the evening, Miss Katharine McNeerney being the fortunate player. A delicious luncheon was served at the close of the evening, the appointments being carried out in green and white, whose favors to the guests were dainty baskets of pink heart-shaped bonbons.

The out-of-town guests were Mrs. Wm. McKean of Fostoria and Mrs. Wm. Donovan of Cleveland.

An interesting family reunion was held Thursday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Wilbert of Whitman, when about forty relatives met and enjoyed supper and dinner on the lawn. A delightful afternoon was spent in social diversions, Miss Catherine Wilbert giving a number of recitations for the pleasure of the guests, and Miss Leona Meyer played several piano numbers. Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Charles of Perry County, Penn., were present as guests.

Officers for the coming year were chosen as follows, Mrs. V. L. Sutton

HERE'S HEIR TO THE DUKE MILLIONS

Mrs. Angier B. Duke and her son Angier B., Jr.

This is the first photograph which has been made of Mrs. Angier B. Duke and her son Angier, Jr. Mrs. Duke, who was formerly Miss Cordelia Riddle of Philadelphia, was one of the leaders of the social set in that city and her wedding last year was a social event. Mr. Duke is the son of Benjamin B. Duke, head of the tobacco trust.

SOCIAL AFFAIRS

The approaching marriage of Miss Hedwig Elizabeth Gensirt daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Scott, of Youngstown, to Charles Clarence Hall, of Tiffin, will be of interest to her many friends in Sandusky.

The announcement of the engagement was made at a most delightful party given by her parents Tuesday evening, Miss Juanita Guckert of this city being among the guests.

The wedding will take place June 14th at St. Columba's church in Youngstown, and will be followed by a reception at the Scott home. Mr. and Mrs. Hall will make their home in Tiffin.

A delightful birthday party was that given Wednesday afternoon for little Miss Dorothy Clegg at her home on Polk-st. in honor of her sixth anniversary. The children enjoyed a happy afternoon playing games and at 4.30 a delicious birthday supper was served, with a birthday cake having a prominent place on the table.

The little hostess received many pretty gifts, among them being a garnet ring from her parents. The following little folks enjoyed the occasion, Marian Ernst, Virginia Byer, Kenneth Schwab, Edgar Dietz, Wilbur Knauer, Elsworth Grubbe, Wayne Grubbe and Dorothy Clegg. The following "grown-ups" were also present Mr. and Mrs. Grubbe, Mr. William Knauer, Mrs. Frank Byer, and Mrs. Kollner Clegg.

TO BE FASHIONABLE, YOU MUST NOW GET ON THE RAGGED EDGE

By MARGARET MASON, (Written for the United Press).

Her parasol is edged with fringe. And she's fringe on her dainty gown.

Her curling lashes fringe her eyes. And she lives on the fringe of town.

NEW YORK, June 2.—To be on the fringe of society is the last thing one could wish, but to have on the fringe of fashion is the latest thing one could wish.

Indeed it seems as if fringe were infusing the popularity of another trimmings.

The fringed frock is omnipresent and boasts anything from tiny edging of vivid hued yarn fringe to a deep fringe of silk, either black or of a tone to match or contrast with the gown.

It is used effectively on the bottoms of the wide skirts and to edge the bell shaped sleeves.

One stunning evening model shows an entire overskirt of knotted silk fringe of yellow, black, burgundy and old rose over a petticoat of turquoise-blue chiffon.

The sleeves are mere shreds of fringe and the apology for a bodice is a scrap of the turquoise chiffon.

The new wide cape collars are edged with narrow, colorful fringe; hats have a narrow yarn fringe edging and I even glimpsed a swagger daniel who wiped her up-titled up-to-date nose on a handkerchief of pale mauve with a tiny old blue edging of thread fringe. Fringe is certain to be snafu.

On the loose long taffeta coats and wraps either for day or evening wear the fringe is finishing with the pinked rouchings as a finish but it is as a finish for a parasol perhaps that fringe reaches its truly highest point.
